

Talk To Me

I'm ready to talk and I want to hear what you have to say. Talk to me and I'll share my thoughts with you through my smiles and babbles. This will help me to grow up into a confident child ready to communicate and learn.

- I love to hear the sound of your voice when you talk to me and point out all the interesting things in the world around us.
- I can talk back too, and my smiles and babbles show how much I enjoy our talking time together.
- Your words and actions excite me and I know how much you want to hear from me because you listen to me so carefully.
- I love it when we cuddle up together with a book. I want to hear my favourite stories and see my favourite pictures again and again.

- Poems, rhymes and songs grab my attention, especially when you act out the words. Any songs will do.
- We can watch a bit of television together and talk about what we see and hear.
- Sometimes I might get tired and need some quiet, but it won't be long before I'm ready to talk again.
- You might have to teach me to live without my dummy so I can practise my noises and words.
- Talking and listening to me helps me to learn new words and gives me the confidence to try them out.

© Illustrations by
Posy Simmonds

Talk To Your Baby

Talk To Me may be photocopied. For more information visit www.talktoyourbaby.org.uk

Talk To Your Baby is an initiative of the National Literacy Trust